The Verdict Against Cumming. Our prognosis of the result of the bac-carat-slander trial was accurate.

The jury yesterday "found for the defendants," which was equivalent to saying that the charge made by Sir WILLIAM GOR-DON-CUMMING that he had been maligned by the Tranby Croft party was not

The accused all denied that they had given currency to the report that Cum-ming had cheated at the baccaret-table; but nevertheless they cheerfully proceeded to show that such was the fact. CUMMING not only failed to remove the cloud upon his name, but actually afforded his ene mies an opportunity so to fasten it there as probably to defy all future efforts in that direction. He is now a disgraced man. The only satisfaction, so far as we can discover, which the trial has brought him, is that the Prince of Wales' life has been exposed to the ruthless gaze of all the world, and that the Heir Apparent has thereby fallen in the estimation of thousands of his subjects.

The Prince, however, can look forward to a time when he can punish his enemies by severely ignoring them. Still, as long as he lives, the bitterness of this expose will live with him, and there is no telling what influence it will have upon his fortunes. For Cumming the future appears black, for while there will be not a few who will sympathize with him, as the victim of a possible conspiracy and as one who sacrificed his honor for an ungrateful friend, he will have no further recognition in the army, in the clubs, or in that society where he seems to have flourished until he went on that unlucky visit to the WII-That he is guilty seems to have been established by plenty of evidence, besides the fatal "compact" to which he under compulsion gave his signature. The verdict rendered was the only one possible. The wonder is that he brought the action at all.

A Defect in the Public Schools. After stating that the annual report of the Board of Education of New York shows that last year there was an average of only about thirty-four pupils to each grammarschool teacher, and of as many as forty four to each primary-school teacher, the New York World adds that these figures point to a defect in the public-school sys tem, the best teaching and the best teachers being needed more in the primary schools than in the grammar schools. We ave often made this remark and often heard it made. Not only do the primary schools need the best and most considerate teachers, but they need the largest number of them in proportion to the number of pupils. The difficulty in this case lies in the fact that the teachers qualified-in the sense in which the word "qualified" i usually employed-to teach small pupils can be obtained for much lower prices than teachers qualified to teach the highest classes. We know of no way in which this defect can be cured. School trustees dare not pay higher prices in the lower schools than in the grammar grades. We mention the fact of the existence of such a defect merely to call attention to the subject and to induce teachers, trustees, principals and all others concerned to ponder the matter until they have evolved from their

In order to fix upon some definite mode of procedure it is proposed that a con-vention of southern universities and colleges be held in Charleston at such time during the coming tall as may be found most expedient and convenient, and that an interstate oratorical contest be made a feature of the proposed convention and that each institution shall be represented by one contestant.

The undertaking is a praiseworthy one and we hope that our Virginia institutions will be well represented.

Some of the school buildings in Rich mond are awkwardly constructed, and in case of a panie many lives might be lost in consequence. This matter should receive attention during the approaching vacation. We wonder if all of the school-houses

The Colonel was largely instru-mental in making the New York World what it is, and his present venture is predicated upon the conviction that the New York morning papers are all too voluminous, and that the public need a one-cent sheet where they can read the news in a succinct and bright form. This he proposes to furnish. We hope that he will succeed. He is a man of tireless energy and vast mental reources, and it may be his fortune to revolutionize New York journalism for the robbery committed on Saturday night. They mot Gus. Fowler on one of the cross streets, knocked him down, and stole from him a new sult of clothes which he had just purchased. They were arrested early Sunday morning. It is likely that they will receive swift punishment, as the grand jury meets to motrow. All the parties are

Escape of Prisone

The report that prisoners have been and are constantly escaping from that malignant gaoler, liver complaint, is fully corroborated by the self-liberated captives. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are, they say, the means by which they get rid of their fetters. Few altogether avoid the bondage of this ailment, and few are unacquainted with its signs—via: pain through the right side and shoulder-blade, furred tongus, yellowness of the crebails and skin, sour breath, sick headache, dyspepsia, and constipation. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters puts a prompt period to these, brings them to a full stop in short order. Whether the trouble is chronic or temporary, this medithe trouble is chronic or temporary, this medi-cine is equally effective, regulating the liver and bowels thoroughly. It is hard to find any one nowadays who likes to be called a demagogue. The term is usually applied and confined to a certain class of politicains, but there is demagogy in business as well as in politics, and the title is peculiarly fitted to all those merchants who facetiously profess to study the welfare of the community without ever a view to the benefits they Now for Bargains such as are not themselves reap.
